Iceland

Land of Ice and Fire

ICELAND, the world's most uniquely-shaped country, known as natural geological museum.

Situated at the junction of the North Atlantic and Arctic Oceans, it's one of the five Nordic countries, covering an area of 103,000 square kilometers. While Iceland is part of Europe, geographically, it's not on the European mainland; instead, it's a remote island in the North Atlantic, closest to Greenland, the Faroe Islands, and the United Kingdom. Due to its location at the meeting point of the Eurasian and North American tectonic plates, Iceland boasts active volcanoes, earning it the nickname 'Land of Ice and Fire.' Erupting geysers, magnificent glaciers, and waterfalls, making it a haven for photographers and nature enthusiasts.

Iceland lies entirely within the auroral zone, making it the only country globally where the Northern Lights can be witnessed throughout. In the summer, the land enjoys cool breezes and endless daylight, with a sea of lupines and puffin sightings.

Here, you're about to embark on one of the most unforgettable geography lessons of your life!

DAY 3

Blonduos – Akureyri

- After breakfast, continue to the east to Blonduos.
- After arriving in Akureyri, we proceed to the supermarket and see the heart-shaped traffic light.
- Visit the fairy-tale-like town of Akureyri. Akureyri is less of a city and more of a charming seaside town. Many people choose it as a resting place during their circumnavigation journey. If you're just passing through the town, Akureyri's great cathedral and botanical garden are destinations worth experiencing.

Accommodation:
Nordic style cottage/
hotel

Distance: about 202km
Duration: approx 2.5hours

DAY 4

Myvatn – Egilsstaðir

- After breakfast, on our way to Egilsstaðir, we will stop at another great northern waterfall - Godafoss.
- Then we head to Mývatn. The northern Mývatn is famous for its unique geothermal scenery and is the second most famous hot spring in Iceland.
- Continue our journey to the large waterfall in the north - Dettifoss, to experience the most explosive waterfall in Europe. The surging waterfall rolls into the Jökulsárgljúfur gorge with great impact.
- Today we are staying in the center of the eastern region-Egilsstaðir or the surrounding area.

Accommodation:
Nordic style cottage/
hotel

THINGS TO KNOW BEFORE COMING TO ICELAND

- Iceland's weather is unpredictable. We may have to meet road closure when the weather is bad, and face unexpected situations at any time, and then change the itinerary / accommodation.
- Some attractions require a short walk to reach.
- Tour members need to have strong physical fitness, no underlying diseases (asthma, high blood pressure, heart disease) and enough equipment to withstand the cold temperature.
- Summer: Iceland offers not only the midnight sun but also the opportunity to observe adorable puffins. Many places in Iceland are habitats for puffins, and we will explore them together (subject to weather conditions). Due to Iceland's high latitude, summer sunlight lasts almost all day, UV radiation can be strong, sun protection measures are necessary. Summer temperature is pleasant, but it's important to stay warm. Typically between 10-15°C.
- Autumn: The aurora will be tracked throughout the journey, but the aurora is a peculiar natural phenomenon that requires luck and a positive mindset, and can only be seen when the weather is clear.
- This tour will travel throughout Iceland in a private transport driven by a professional Icelandic driver (accompanied by a tour leader photoshoot throughout the journey). Each day, there will be a change of accommodation location to provide tour members with a comprehensive experience of Iceland. We will primarily choose hotels for accommodation. If staying in a hotel, dinner will be provided externally, and the hotel will include breakfast for the following day. If staying in guesthouses, we can also take the group to supermarkets to purchase ingredients for everyone to prepare breakfast and dinner together.
- This trip is suitable for those who love to make friends and nature. The tour members need to cooperate and help each other.
- Due to the limited space in the carriage, the luggage of the tour members are: a medium suitcase (27inch) + a hand luggage bag + a small backpack.

DETAILS

- Departure: Late May - Early October (The date will be published on our FB and website)
- Group size: 14-16 members per group with 1-2 tour leaders
- Private group: Contact us for arrangement and special discounts

FAQ

1. What months can you see the Northern Lights in Iceland?

You can typically see the Northern Lights in Iceland between September and March. However, it's not guaranteed every day, and they are most spectacular when the sky is clear and visibility is high.

2. When is the best time to visit Iceland?

Iceland is a great destination to visit year-round. In the winter, you can witness the mysterious Northern Lights, while in the summer, there's the romantic midnight sun. It's definitely a travel destination you don't want to miss in your lifetime.

3. Is summer a suitable time to visit Iceland? What are the attractions?

Summer in Iceland is relatively warm, with average temperatures ranging from 10-20°C, making it a great season for a refreshing escape. During this time, daylight hours are incredibly long, making it ideal for sightseeing and exploration.

Summer is the peak tourist season in Iceland. You can enjoy the phenomenon of the midnight sun, vast fields of blooming lupines along the roadsides, excellent opportunities to observe puffins, and witness astonishing natural wonders.

4. What is the largest glacier in Iceland?

Vatnajökull Glacier is the largest glacier in Iceland and even in Europe! Our Bucket List itinerary will take you up close to admire this extensive glacier in a national park.

5. What is the best month to visit the Ice Cave? Can children participate?

Ice caves are only available end of autumn to winter season (end of September to March), depending on the weather conditions. If the temperatures are too high, it's not safe to enter the ice caves.

Children as young as 8 years old can participate, and there's no significant difficulty involved. As long as they meet the age requirement, most children can join. Walking inside the ice cave requires caution, and carrying or piggybacking a child is not advisable.

FAQ

6. Are helmets and crampons provided for the Ice Caves hiking? What clothing should I prepare?

When participating in the Ice Caves hiking in Iceland, professional guides will lead the tours, and you should never attempt these activities on your own, as it can be dangerous. Guides will provide essential safety equipment, including crampons. It is recommended that group members wear waterproof and warm clothing, sturdy waterproof hiking boots with high ankle support to protect your ankles (If you don't have suitable footwear, you can usually rent them on-site).

7. How should I prepare clothing for a trip to Iceland?

Iceland's weather is notoriously changeable year-round, and you might even experience a romantic encounter with sun, rain, wind, and snow all in one day. It's advisable to use the "onion layering" technique and prioritize staying warm. Bring waterproof and windproof down jackets, warm clothing, and more.

8. Is Iceland expensive?

Iceland is one of the most expensive countries in the world in terms of the cost of living. Many items have to be imported into the country, which contributes to the relatively high prices.

9. What is the currency in Iceland?

The primary currency in Iceland is the Icelandic Króna (ISK)/EURO. However, it's advisable to use credit cards, as they are widely accepted throughout Iceland.

10. What is Icelandic food like?

Iceland is surrounded by the sea, so fish and seafood are essential components of Icelandic cuisine. Traditional Icelandic dishes typically revolve around fish, dairy products, bread, potatoes, and lamb. Some Icelandic specialties include Skyr yogurt, lamb, seafood, dried fish, and more. An average meal in Iceland costs between EUR 23-30.
